News From the President

By Mike Edmonson

Hey there everyone,

I hope everyone has had a COOL August. How do you spell SWEAT!!! Not sure if it belongs in Ripley's Believe it or Not category, but I read the other day that Southern California was the most humid spot on the planet -- not sure if those who have been to Okinawa, Japan would agree. But I digress...but for sure, weather does play a certain role in driving our Model A's around town and on the highways and byways. If you haven't flushed your radiator's recently, I would recommend you do so ASAP.

This past month we had a wonderful tour with about eight cars and 15 club members that headed south down the beautiful Pacific Coast Highway, through Laguna Beach (many AHOOGA moments), stopping off at Dana Point for a restroom break and a leg stretch. Unfortunately Karl Bonham became our most probable candidate for the Hard Luck Trophy as he ran out of gas at our rest stop! Never fear! Gary Livesey came to the rescue with an empty gas can, and yours truly headed back to the highway for a quick fill-up and we were off and running to San Juan Capistrano where we had a really nice lunch at the historic El Adobe restaurant followed by some browsing (and buying) at the Antique Mall.

This was a great tour, but if you missed, you have some cooler weather (praying this is true) and some awesome opportunities that you just don't want to miss (remember, we live with no regrets!!!). On Saturday, September 12th we are participating in a drive down PCH for the 100th Anniversary of that famous coastal route Starting at the "A" Restaurant (formally the Arches restaurant) in Newport Beach and down to Crystal Cove. A relatively short drive that only comes around every 100 Years, so don't miss it. A bit of trivia: PCH (Hwy 1) actually has several names. Per the map, and as we discovered last month, it's Pacific Coast Highway coming down from Long Beach and points north, then turns into W. Coast Hwy at Brookhurst, and then E. Coast Hwy. at Dover Rd (Lower Newport Bay), N. Coast Hwy as you hit Emerald Bay, S. Coast Hwy in Laguna Beach, and then back to Pacific Coast Hwy. at Crown Valley Pkwy. Confused? I sure am!

Your second opportunity for a drive will be our quasi-annual Progressive Brunch on the following Saturday, September 19th...which also happens to be International Model A Ford Day! So hop in your beloved jalopy and enjoy both some hospitality and a nice drive, as well as getting a patch to go with it. More details about the brunch and this month's Technical Seminar (I believe turn signals are up), and voting for Karl (he he he). Speaking of voting, we are on the hunt for new board members and a new newsletter Editor -- fresh blood, fresh ideas -- we don't want an idle club, I know we all want a vibrant club, so please put any fears you have and jump right in!

See you at our next meeting on September 10th....

Mike

Highlights of the Aug. Tech Seminar

Rebuilding Shock Absorbers

If anyone has ever attempted to rebuild Model A shock absorbers, then you know they can be very challenging at times. However, as with most everything, having the right tools usually makes the job much, MUCH easier.... Go figure!!

On Saturday, Aug. 8th, club members gathered at Steve & Debbie Pavich's home in Fountain Valley to be instructed by Dave Knapp and Matt Pavich, Steve's son, on some of the ins and outs of disassembling and rebuilding standard shock absorbers that came on Model A's.

Probably the most important tool one needs to have is a GOOD vice, mounted on a very sturdy, and well anchored, work bench. VERY important tool!!!!

Matt showed several tools that were brought by club members...some home made, others store bought. One set of tools that were brought, contained a special wrench strictly for loosening the jam ring that butts up against, and secures the outside reservoir, or cap. Then the other tool in the kit is used to remove that cap. To do all of this, the base of the shock absorber MUST be mounted securely. There will be a LOT of pressure exerted while loosening both of these parts!

Once the reservoir/cap has been removed, then the next task is unscrewing the inner body of the shock that the shaft rotates in. But first, make sure that the shaft fits through without any unnecessary wobble... If it wobbles, then the shock absorber is "wall art"... Dispose of it and find another.

Once everything has been disassembled, a thorough cleaning is required. Once that is accomplished, then reassembling everything, with new O-rings and packing, is a rather easy task.

Last thing on the "To-Do List" is to mount the shock in a vertical position, as it would be mounted on the vehicle, and tying a 15 lb. weight to the actuation arm, then timing how long it takes to pull the arm down from top to bottom of it's stroke. Properly adjusted, it should take approximately 6-7 seconds. The adjustment needle/bolt should be about 1/4 turn out from being "lightly" bottomed out.

Many thanks to Dave Knapp and Matt Pavich for putting on this informative seminar. And a special thank you for Steve and Debbie Pavich for the use of their home.

Mount shock base to holding fixture, before clamping in sturdy vice.

Testing shock with 15 lb. weight. Should take 6-7 seconds to travel to bottom of stroke.

Loosening Lock Ring

Removing reservoir, by removing fill plug, then placing tool over cap, then screwing T-handle into fill hole, then remove cap.

Please be sure to say “Hello” when you meet them at one of our next outings.

Toolin’ Around Tustin

Article and Photos submitted by Susan Svoboda

Many years ago, when my husband Mark was about to turn sixteen and dreaming of his first car, his father reminded him of an old 1931 Model A sitting in the garage next to his grandmother’s house in David City, Nebraska. The woman who owned it had passed away nearly a decade earlier, and with no family of her own, she left everything—including the car—to her neighbor, Mark’s grandma. The estate attorney valued the dusty relic at $150. Mark sold his minibike for $100, his father added $50, and off they went to Nebraska.

After politely evicting the family of mice that had taken up residence inside, they put new tires on the car, loaded it onto a trailer, and hauled it back to California. Mark tore it down to the chassis and rebuilt it piece by piece. Day after day, week after week, the old Ford slowly came back to life. The proudest moment came when he finally turned the key and the engine rumbled awake. He drove it to Tustin High School every day, quickly becoming known as “the guy who drove the old car.”

Fast forward fifty years—Tustin High sweethearts, now long married—and the Model A is running better than ever after some recent work. It’s not meant for long trips, but it’s the perfect companion for cruising around Tustin. We take it out for coffee at Larwin Square or breakfast at 85°C. We drive it to the post office on First Street. And when we roll through Old Town Tustin, it feels like the car has found its natural habitat—almost as if the town was built around it.

With a top speed of 35 or 40 miles an hour, the Model A forces us to slow down and look around.

Mark Svoboda in his Model A.

We notice what’s new, what’s changing, what’s blooming. And without fail, we get waves, thumbs-up, and cheerful honks from people delighted by the sight of a 95-year-old car puttering through town. Mark always answers with a blast of the old-fashioned “ahooga” horn. Sometimes people ask to take a photo.

Their joy adds to ours.

I’ve always said Tustin is a big city with the heart of a small town. In a world where everyone seems rushed, the Model A gives us permission to slow down and appreciate the small things. Every wave, every smile, every thumbs-up reminds us that kindness is still out there—waiting to be noticed.

And besides, it’s nice to have something around the house that’s older than we are.

Sunshine: Norm & Lori Kredit have made the move to independent living at Town & Country. Check the website for their new address. Dennis Kliesen bought a bronco and he is off to camping in the Sequoia National Park, including Hume Lake. He's eager to get on the road after four years of health problems. Stay safe and enjoy the great outdoors of California forests.

Sorrow: No report of illness or hospital visits this month...only "sunshine" news.

A Roadrunner movie "Coyote vs Acme" was just released (Aug 28). The Roadrunner characters were created in 1948 by Chuck Jones & Michael Maltese. They were based upon Mark Twain's "Roughing It" book from 1872's and the MGM "Tom & Jerry" movie from 1940. Have you noticed that many of the antics in this series take place along the desert roads of Route 66. Good history for our Model A hobby. Art from "Route 66 Centennial" group.

Tour of the So. Calif. Coast By Eric Engle

The O.C. Model A Ford Club members were treated to a tour along about 16 miles of the So. California coast line, from Newport Beach to Dana Point Harbor, then over to our destination in San Juan Capistrano. It was a lovely day to drive along our coast: really hard to beat the beauty of our coast line! Once again, our tour guide, Steve Pavich, came though with a very relaxing and enjoyable tour.... Thank you Steve.

As is not all that uncommon, there were a couple of “hiccups” during the tour. One member, Mike and Chrisanna Edmonson, had a serious “death wobble” occur in the heart of downtown Newport Beach, while on their way to the meet-up point, just a bit further down the iconic Pacific Coast Highway. I was following them and saw the front wheels wobbling every which way, but straight, before they were able to get over to the curb. It seriously looked as though their wheels were about to fall off. Upon inspection we found that the two bolts that anchor the steering box to the frame had loosened up. Luckily the two bolts were still there and easily re-tightened... Phew!! We’re back on the road within a few minutes.... The next minor problem was, one of the members cars ran out of gas in Dana Point. Luckily another member had a one gallon gas can for them to borrow. So, within about 30 minutes THEY were also back on the road. (note to self: always fill up the gas tank BEFORE going on any tour !!!) 😊

The final destination was to the Old Barn Antique Mall in San Juan Capo..... Interesting place with all sort of antique knickknacks...Something for everyone.

All the members also had a delightful lunch at the El Adobe restaurant. Great food... great friends....GREAT DAY!!! Again, thank you Steve..

A Hidden Electrical Fault By Tom Endy

Reproduction Model A Ford firewall terminal blocks have been made in Hong Kong for at least the last 30 years that I am aware of and each has a potential hidden electrical fault that can be very difficult to locate and it could be disastrous, and actually cause a fire. The word Hong Kong is stamped on them, so there is no question where they come from.

In the photo, the back side of the terminal block seen on the right attaches directly to the fire wall with four screws. The originals were constructed such that the two terminal studs were molded into the structure during the manufacturing process and there is no way they could short out to the fire wall. The reproductions were manufactured by drilling two holes through the molding and inserting two screws into them from the back that form the two studs that are retained by a nut on each at the front. The two screws can easily back out and touch the fire wall. Both studs (screws) always have battery power on them, so there would be a direct electrical short circuit that is totally obscured.

It is prudent to do some modification to the Hong Kong terminal blocks before installing them. First, apply a little lock tight to the threads of the two screws where they screw into the nut at front and securely tighten. Next fill the hole behind each screw head with JB Weld. This will prevent the screw from backing out and shorting to the fire wall. JB Weld is non-conductive. The terminal block seen at right in the photo has had this done to it.

The Dust Bowl...by Diane Gaughen

On May 10 and 11, 1934, a dust storm blew 300 million tons of topsoil away from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Colorado. Farming had broken up the topsoil of the prairies, allowing the wind to do its devastation. Thus began the trek of the Okies and the Arkies from Oklahoma and Arkansas to California, resulting in John Steinbeck's great novel, Grapes of Wrath.

Because there was no air conditioning, Moms would hang wet dishtowels in the open windows and over the faces of their children. In the morning, red dirt covered everything. Most days, they couldn't even see the sun, the dust was so thick.

Many people couldn't raise enough crops under these conditions. They sold their land and became tenant farmers. When the dust became overwhelming, they packed up everything they could in their Model A's and headed west.

But some saw an opportunity and built businesses along Route 66 to cater to the needs of the flood of migrants moving west. They built motels and gas stations and grocery stores.

One gas station owner described these migrants as "those people with mattresses on top of their cars". But she said they were honest and would work for a dollar a day to pay for gas that was 12 ½ cents a gallon. The local shop-owners would offer some credit until the folks could pay. Some migrants decided to stay put in New Mexico and became leading citizens. So it wasn't all "Grapes of Wrath".

Just for Laughs

It would be wonderful if we could put ourselves in the dryer for 10 minutes, then come out wrinkle-free and three sizes smaller!
